Windows

How can i connect to my Windows-Server ?

In the case of a Windows installation, we only install the Remote Desktop Service (if no admin tool has been selected).

A login to this is possible via the Remote Desktop Client, which can usually be found under Start => All Programs or Programs and then Accessories.

Login is possible via the IP address or the administration domains by entering the user name "Administrator" and the administrator password, which you should retrieve with a token (sent by e-mail after installation).
